AnewAmerica Named as One of the 25 Finalists for the Renewal Awards

February 7, 2018, 7 a.m. PT -- AnewAmerica has been named a finalist in The Atlantic's The Renewal Awards, a nationwide competition recognizing local organizations driving positive change in their communities and bringing progress to the country. Out of 3,000 nominations, AnewAmerica is one of 25 finalists.

Online voting begins today and runs through Wednesday, February 21, at: TheAtlantic.com/Renewal-Awards.

The Renewal Awards seek to illuminate grassroots solutions to challenges faced by communities around the country in an unsettling economic era.

Ultimately, five organizations will each receive a $20,000 grant from Allstate and five runners up will each receive a $10,000 grant from Allstate.

The Renewal Awards are related to The Renewal Project, a social-first website and newsroom spotlighting people and organizations advancing social good and contributing to civic innovation across the country.

"AnewAmerica is excited to be among the finalists," said Steve Dial, CEO of AnewAmerica, "This recognition is truly an honor for us and for all who support our work."
